Electrical Trades Program to Install Security Cameras

A project to install security cameras at NEC was originally set to be completed by Stanley Security. Craig Paquin, Electrical Trades Instructor, was approached regarding having the class install some cable runs to support the Stanley work. This led to a discussion about the possibility of the class doing the entire installation. Tom Finnerty, Director of Management and Finance; Charles LaBrake, Operations and Maintenance Coordinator; Kevin Kerr, NERIC; and Craig Paquin met and reviewed the project last week. The installation will now move forward as an Electrical Trades class project. With both inside and outside camera locations, connections to computer switches and other technical work the project will provide a great experience for the Electrical Trades students. While some initial work may occur in this school year, the bulk of the installation will take place in 2015-16.
